Customer behavior analysis

- Preferred method of payment: COD, followed by Airpay GIRO and Cybersource
- Canceled orders are made on COD or Internet banking while completed orders are made via COD or Airpay GIRO

- Orders are made mostly in the second week of July and were highest on July 12

- ⇒ Recommendation: Operate Stores with various offers and ample stocks for the second week of the month, since historically it has witnessed a surge in spends.
- Why do customers generally cancel? It may be because of the high shipping fee: The average shipping fee of canceled orders is 15,138.3 vs completed orders 10,237.5 VND

Plan for next month to achieve 20M VND KPI

Note: The period is quite short so the recency here is only between 0 to 30 days (in one week). I think that sales data in one month will not give me a clear picture of the customers' behaviors. I'm trying my best to give you some insights below. Hope it helps!

Total # of customers: 27,249 in July

Red alert: There are 84 customers that you need to call now. They used to make many orders but haven't returned for the past two weeks.

Loyal: There are 7 persons which you may want to send a business present (pick a random occasion for it) such as a voucher from an e-commerce platform, but don't seem to require more attention.

P/S: It is interesting that there are NO orders made in July using vouchers. It is also something to consider here. Why are customers not using vouchers? Or is it because Manabie offers no voucher? Or it can be that the voucher is only acceptable to orders whose value is much higher than the normal spending of customers.

Sleeper: 7,775, that's the amount of email with a voucher that you may want to send out to those customers. And hopefully, you can bring them back to the promising group.

Promising: These 6,077 customers are just to be watched. And why not sending small emails with news occasionally about upcoming events, products, coupons, or vouchers.

One-time buyer: From the 13,306 ones who gave their email consent, send them love and gratitude for buying our product. And why not a bit of retargeting? They will be cheaper to reconvert than new users anyway.
